Hopefully ACER will wake-up and come up with a Mac driver at some time (and won't hire too many ass-hole tech support people, the guy actually called me stupid when I told there was no VGA, and after at least 10 minutes of insisting I was stupid, he checked the specs on the C112 and came with the 'because macs are crap').

To my surprise it DOES NOT SUPPORT MACs! Acer Projector Drivers You can connect to an iPad/iPhone for video and photos (not mirroring) and Keynote app presentations (after you buy a 50 USD cable, of course), but there's no way to connect via VGA, HDMI or DVI, so you are stuck with the projector's USB 'graphics card driver mode' which is was only planned for Windows! I called Acer (Switzerland) to be sure I was not doing something wrong and got told basically that Macs suck and I should use Windows instead (!WTF?) I am happy with the projector resolution and actual capabilities (I was just projecting pictures and stuff in the building across the street, and there's a lot of light, but it works!).
